Outline

- Introduction 1- Give me 5
- Introduction 2-The course
- Introduction 3-English Learning

Introducing others and responding to introduction

What is the first step to promote fraternal feelings among people?

Sidi introducing his cousin Mohamed to Brahim

- Sidi : Hello Mohamed, how are you? (greeting)
- Mohamed : Fine, Thank you. How are you?
- Sidi : I am fine too. (responding to greeting) Brahim, meet Mr.Mohamed, my cousin. Mohamed, meet my friend, Brahim.
- Mohamed : How do you do? (responding to first introduction)

- Brahim : How do you do?

Introducing oneself, introducing others and responding to introduction

- Role-playing:
- Fati : I'd like you to meet Miss Sarra. She's a teacher at Nouakchott university
- Vala: Pleased to meet you. My name is Vala.(Introducinng oneself)
- Sarra: It's nice to meet you.(responding to introduction)

- Aly : Let me introduce my friend Oumar to you Oumar, meet Mr. Bakar, my business partner.
- Oumar : How do you do?
- Bakar : How do you do?

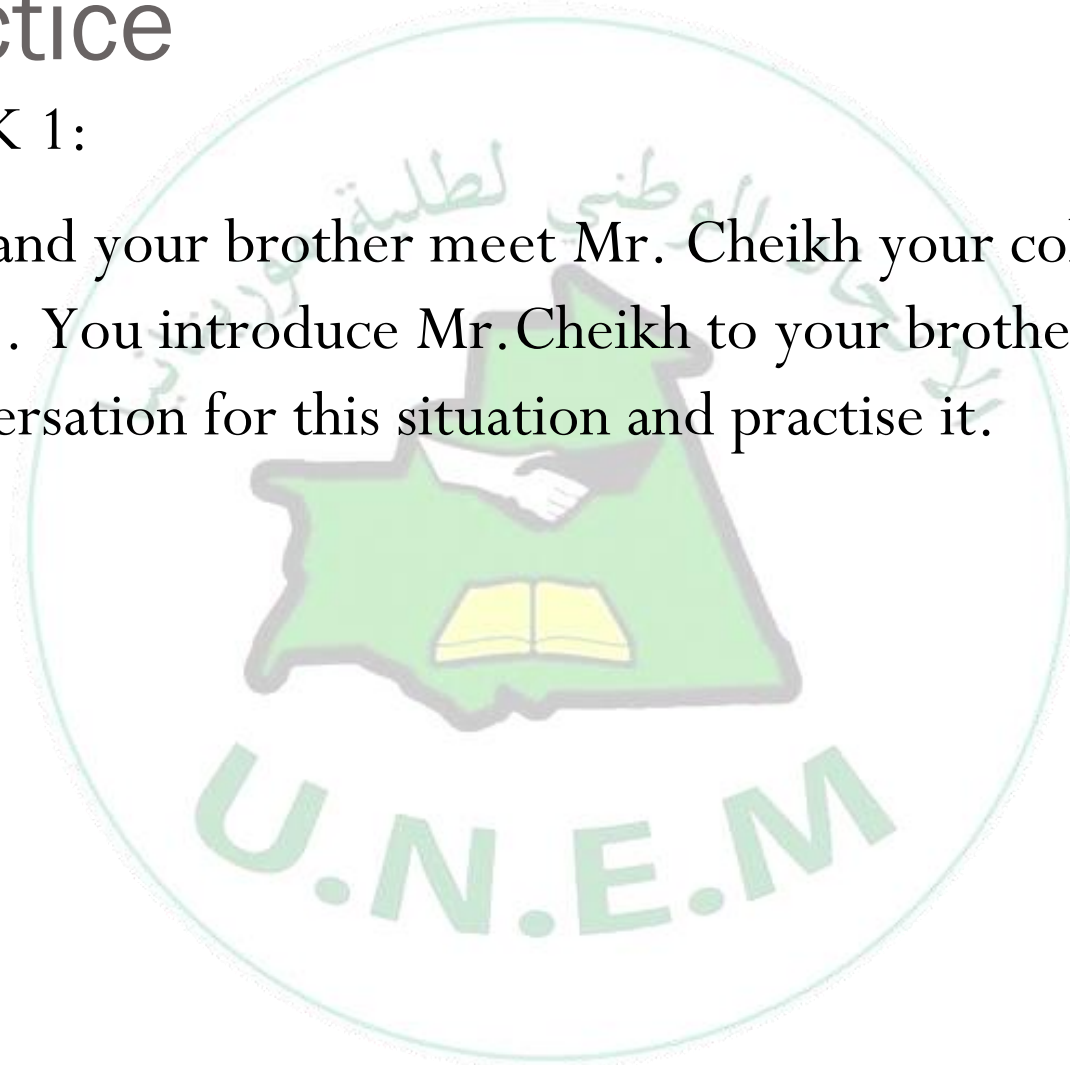

How can we say the same thing in different ways?

- Greetings/responding
- There are a number of expressions for a particular function:
- The following two expressions do not mean the same
- 1 'How are you?' and 2. 'How do you do?'

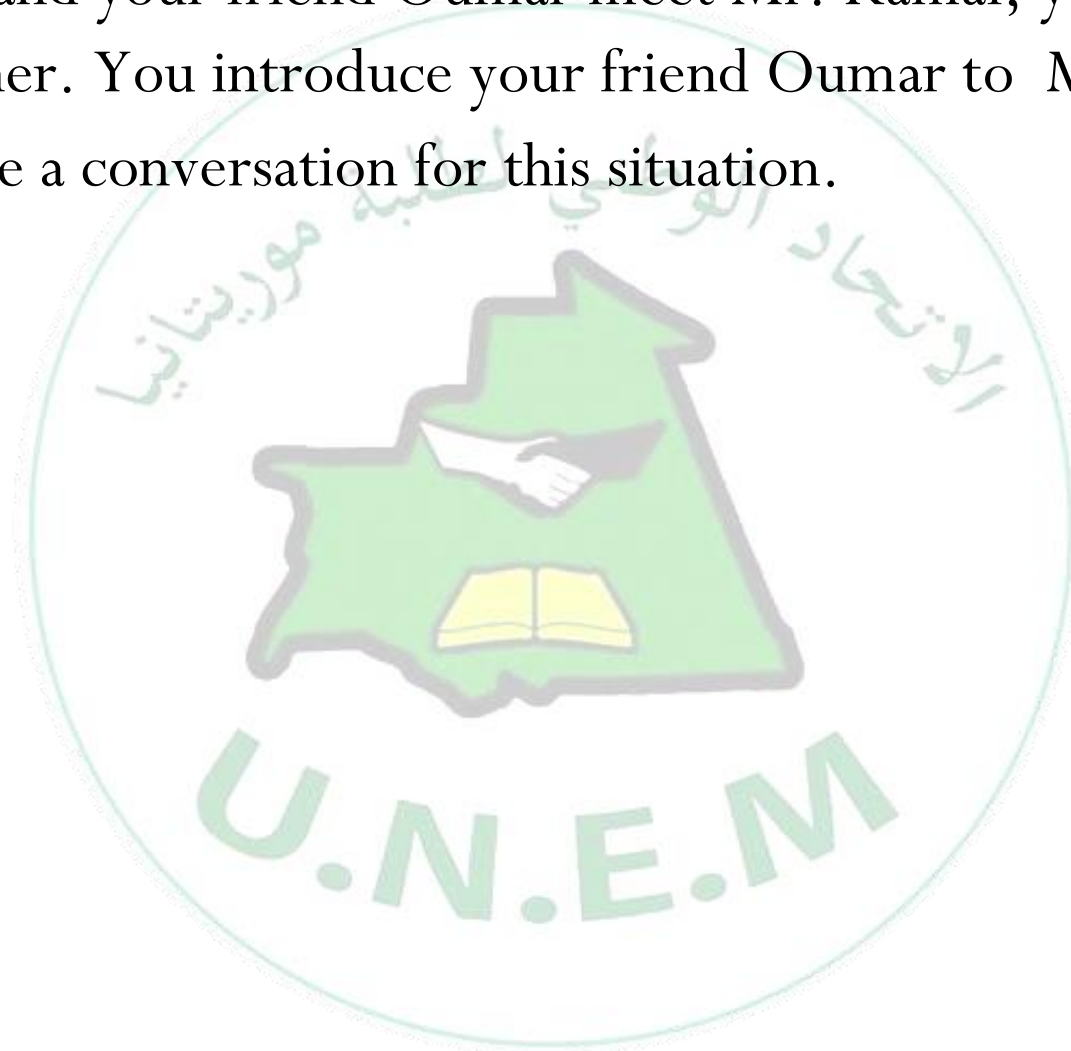

- 1. While speaking to a familiar person, we ask, 'How are you?' and the response will be 'I am fine'.
- 2. When a person is introduced to a stranger he/she will say 'How do you do?' The response is also 'How do you do? Other-ways of strangers greeting each other is to say 'glad' /'pleased' /'nice to meet you'.
- Between friends. saying 'How are you?' itself becomes a form of greeting
- Both these sentences convey the message. The second one carries something of the speaker's cultured behaviour, that is, being polite. Thus, the expressions we use speak about the culture of the speaker.

Practice

- TASK 1:
- You and your brother meet Mr. Cheikh your colleague at the bank . You introduce Mr.Cheikh to your brother. Write a conversation for this situation and practise it.

- You and your friend Oumar meet Mr. Kamal, your business partner. You introduce your friend Oumar to Mr. Kamal.
Write a conversation for this situation.

- Khalil : Let me introduce my friend Oumar to you ,Oumar meet Mr. Kamal, my business partner.
- Oumar : How do you do?
- Kamal : How do you do?

Khalil : Oumar, have you met Mr. Kamal? Kamal, this is Oumar, my friend.

Kamal : Pleased to meet you, Oumar.

Oumar : Nice to meet you, Kamal .

Expressing Similarities and Differences.

The Outline

- Expressing similarities and differences?
- How can you express similarities and differences?
- What are the most useful grammatical categories for expressing similarities and differences?

Expressing similarities and differences?

- The process of comparing and contrasting two things, people or events
- when we compare, we usually look for similarities.
- when we contrast, we look for differences.

How can you express similarities and differences?

- One of the easiest ways to compare and contrast is to make a table with the headings Category 1 / Category 2 or Similarities / Differences.
- The use of the specific grammatical categories of comparing and contrasting, such as coordinating and subordinating conjunctions in compound sentences.

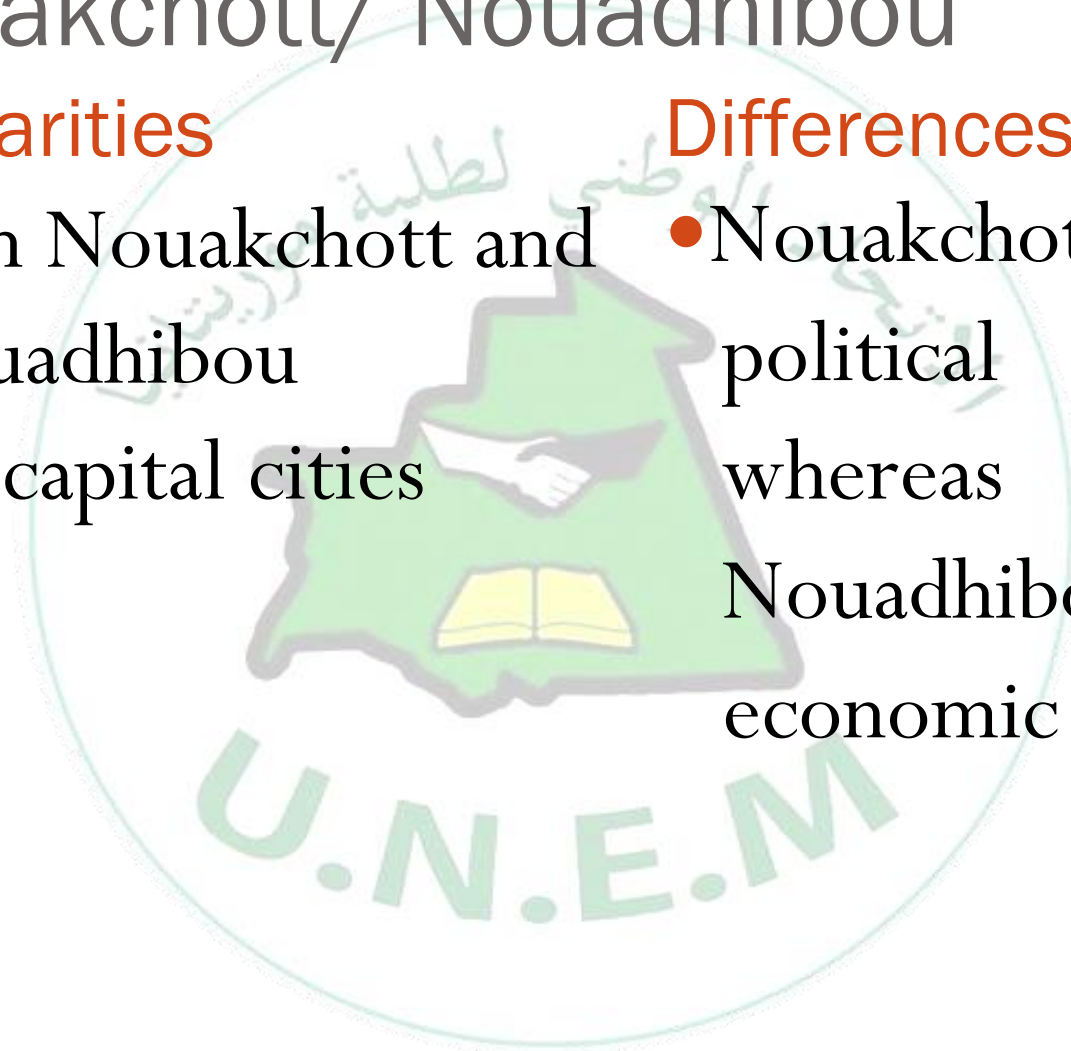

Nouakchott/ Nouadhibou

Similarities

- Both Nouakchott and Nouadhibou are capital cities

Differences

- Nouakchott is the political city whereas Nouadhibou is the economic city

Grammatical categories for expressing similarities and differences

- grammatical categories of comparing and contrasting are coordinating and subordinating conjunctions like and, but, whereas, while, also, on the other hand, in contrast, similarly, etc.

A Tale of Two Brothers (Compare and Contrast)

- A Tale of Two Brothers

Most brothers are alike for the most part while others are as different as two snowflakes. They both look the same until you look closer and start comparing them to one another. Growing up in the same household would play a big part in ones likes and dislikes. It is living together which could sometimes cause one to grow one away from the other. Michael and Anthony, two brothers, are different in some ways but still have some similarities.

A Tale of Two Brothers (Compare and Contrast)

- Michael and Anthony were normal boys, with normal childhoods. At home, Michael did all of his chores, studied and always obeyed his elders. Anthony, on the other hand, always found an excuse as to why he could not do his chores, finish his homework, or mind his elders. You would expect Michael to do well in school, since he studied and did everything he was supposed to do. He wanted to grow up to become an accountant like his father. Anthony did well in school, despite the insubordination. Anthony did not want to be like his father; instead, he wanted to become a policeman. Both of the brothers had ideal dreams and did not seem like a far stretch from reality. The future had another plan for these two.
